To evaluate the effect of extracorporeal shock wave lithotripsy (SWL) on the colour of the urine in patients with stones. In a prospective study, the colour of the urine was graded before treatment and 1, 2 and 3 weeks after SWL. The study comprised 10 patients with stones of different sizes (mean

+/- SD, 3.7 +/- 1.1 cm). The patients underwent 20 treatments with SWL (Medstone STS Lithotripter, Storz Medical AG, Germany). Stone fragmentation was assessed by the 5-point scale of the Dk/T system (Danish Kidney Stone Database). The patients were divided into two groups, those with no and those with partial fragmentation after the SWL. A colour change in the urine was seen in all patients, both in the group with complete stone fragmentation (n = 4) and in the group with partial fragmentation (n = 6) after SWL. The mean colour score decreased by 1.6 after the first treatment, and it continued to decrease by 0.5-0.8/week after the last treatment. At the end of the study, the mean colour score was 1.1. The mean change in colour score was greater in the group with complete fragmentation after SWL (mean change, 0.7 versus 0.4; P < 0.05). You can design a site with no restrictions if it's up to you. Because the free version of Google Web Designer is what it is, it can only be used for basic projects. It's not designed for more complicated projects. As soon as you want to do anything else, such as adding or modifying an element, you need to buy the upgrade. Google Web Designer is a Web-based WYSIWYG website editor, it is not a traditional page editor
